

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Home / About Us / Community Engagement

The Insurance Commission recognises that it is important for organisations to be good corporate citizens by actively engaging with their stakeholders.

We have an active community engagement program that aims to prevent or minimise the risk of injuries insured by the Insurance Commission and improve rehabilitation and care outcomes of Insurance Commission clients. This helps the Insurance Commission to manage the cost of claims and to keep insurance premiums affordable.

The Insurance Commission of Western Australia Act 1986 sets out our obligations to initiate, participate and promote awareness into the treatment of personal injury and industrial diseases.

The community directed initiatives we sponsor and support focus on our core business of administering personal injury insurance for vehicle crashes and workplace accidents.

Our community directed initiatives are in three key areas: road safety, research and care innovation.

We maintain guidelines that help us assess new community directed initiatives and their relevance to the Insurance Commission:
